Buy Your Christmas Gifts Now.

Our place may now close any day. If you examine the nominal figures put on price tags of goods you will realize how anxious we are to sell goods at some price, in order to get rid of same. This certainly is a chance of a life time to secure choice reliable merchandise at a mere fraction of actual cost. We have been selling already thousands of dollars worth for Xmas Gifts. If you have been spending in past years say $100 for Xmas gifts, this year by purchasing here NOW you can get nicer and more expensive presents at $50 or less. The goods we have left on hand are almost invariably what constituted the choicest and the most expensive part of our stock for the simple reason that when earlier, the prices were generally cut down by 40 and 50 per cent, the lower price goods were picked out in no time as everybody wanted them, while the expensive goods even at their half price did not seem to interest the average buyer half as much as the lower price goods at a smaller reduction. Now the choice merchandise we have on hand has just been marked down regardless of former prices, cost or even intrinsic value. The reduction in prices is such that must interest all buyers. We submit the following values taken at random from our different departments.

1 English Inlaid Comb. Bookcase and Desk at $125, from $350.

STUDENTS BURIED BENEATH RUINS.

Chi Psi Fraternity House at Cornell Burned.

Volunteer Firemen Killed and Rescues Impossible.

ITHACA, N. Y., Dec. 7.—The beautiful Chi Psi fraternity house at Cornell University caught fire early today. O. L. Schmuck of Hanover, Pa., jumped from a third-story window, and was so severely injured that it is feared he will die. Three of Ithaca's volunteer firemen, all of them well known citizens, were killed while fighting the flames. Four students lie in the infirmary at the point of death, while at the time of writing it is not known how many are in the ruins.

The firemen killed were Attorney A. S. Robinson, a graduate of Cornell; Lesley Landon and John Ramsey. They were directing a hose on the north side of the building when the wall fell and pinned them under it, and they were slowly roasted under the burning debris. When the fire department arrived on the scene of the disaster the screams of two men appearing in the windows over the main entrance were heard. The men hesitated to jump from their burning prison, and while the firemen watched the scene, almost paralyzed with horror, the tower collapsed and the men were buried beneath the ruins. They are supposed to be F. W. Geckler of Orange, N. J., and H. M. Nichols of Chicago. The fire was so hot that the firemen were driven back, and any attempt at rescue was impossible.

Among those who were taken from the ruins were J. M. McCutcheon of Pittsburg, the football full back substitute. Those taken out were in a pitiable condition. They were bleeding from cuts caused by falling bricks and timbers and blackened by smoke.

The chapter house, which was the celebrated mansion built by Mrs. Jennie McGraw Fiske, on the campus overlooking Cayuga lake, and never occupied by her because of her premature death, was a beautiful structure of sandstone. It was handsomely decorated within with marble and mahogany. It is now a heap of ruins. The walls were of rubble masonry and collapsed under the flames and high wind.

C. J. Pope, a Freshman, member of the fraternity, is missing, and is supposed to be under the ruins. Many of the men at first supposed to be missing are being cared for at other fraternity houses in the vicinity. Later C. L. Schmuck succumbed to his injuries.

Schmuck's death brings the list of probable dead up to six, including the three volunteer firemen.

DENY NEW JAPANESE TREATY.

The President States That No Steps Have Been Taken in Matter.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—"There is absolutely nothing in it," said Senator Cullom, chairman of the Senate committee on foreign relations today, when asked what he knew about the proposed new treaty with Japan, after he had paid a visit to the State Department. Secretary Root and Aoki, the deputy ambassador, both have flatly denied that such a treaty was in contemplation.

Assistant Secretary of State Bacon today made a statement on behalf of the President that no steps of any kind had been taken, or will be instituted, with a view to the negotiation of a new treaty with Japan for the exclusion of Japanese laborers. "The President," Mr. Bacon said, "asked that this information be made public."

BOLO MEN RUSH AMERICAN FORCE.

Five United States Men Killed on Leyte.

Detachment Starts in Pursuit of Insurgents.

MANILA, Dec. 7.—Later reports of the fighting in the island of Leyte, December 6, show that Captain Samuel V. Hann, with a detachment of Company L of the Eighth infantry, and a force of constabulary under Lieutenant Ralph P. Yates, Jr., were rushed by 60 bolo men, four miles from La Paz, on the Taragona trail, during the afternoon of that day. The Pulafanes had a few guns, fired a volley, and then made a rush upon the American force. Five Americans were killed and nine were injured. The enemy lost 30 men killed. The number of Pulafanes wounded and captured is not known. A detachment has started in pursuit of the insurgents. The telegraph line between Tacloban and Iloilo is down, and no further details are obtainable. The list of the American dead is as follows:

Sergeant Joseph Clark, died of a bolo wound; Sergeant James Prover, killed with a bolo; Private William Dufferin, killed with a bolo; Private W. Hadley, gunshot; Private Edward Keogh, gunshot.

The Americans wounded were Corporal Weld, Private McHenry, Private Edge and Private Wakefield, all severely wounded, and Privates Armstrong, Brennan, Herron, Holst and Richardson, slightly wounded.

The dead were buried on the battlefield during the night of December 5.

All the wounded are doing well. The wound of Lieutenant Yates, which at first was reported to be slight, is now said to be serious. No report has been received of any further losses among the constabulary.

MELILLA, Morocco, Dec. 7.—A detachment of the Sultan's troops, under the command of Caid Brechina, has crossed the Moulmyn river, and native runners report that the pretender's followers are preparing to attack the sheriffian force. TO QUITE MOROCCANS.

Declaration Contained in Franco-Spanish Note to Powers.

BERLIN, Dec. 7.—The Reichstag today discussed the Algeciras convention. Foreign Minister Tschirsky explained Germany's position throughout the Moroccan conference.

In reply to questions, he said the Franco-Spanish note contained a declaration that the measure of the two powers were only designed to have a quieting effect upon the Moroccan population. The same note had been handed to all the powers of Germany, the secretary continued, had no occasion to oppose the joint action of France and Spain. After some debate the bill ratifying the Algeciras convention passed its first and second readings.

SEVERAL RAILROAD ACCIDENTS OCCUR.

Employes Killed and Hurt in the Collisions.

Wrecks Occurred in Northern New England.

BOSTON, Dec. 7.—Six railroad employes are dead, and as many others injured as a result of a series of railroad accidents in northern New England last night. The most serious wreck happened on the Maine Central railroad near Annabessacook, Me., and took the form of a head-on collision between two freight trains. Both engineers were killed, one of the firemen lost his life and the brakeman of the regular train was buried in the wreckage. Two other brakemen and a fireman are seriously hurt. A misinterpretation of orders caused the accident.

A similar accident occurred on the Boston & Maine railroad at Rochester, N. H. There the regular freight train from Nashua ran into a special freight as the latter was pulling out from a siding. The engineer and brakeman of the special were killed, and another

This Morning's News.

ROCKEFELLER SUBPOENAED.

His Six Associates and Other Standard Oil Men Also Summoned.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—John D. Rockefeller and his six associates who control the Standard Oil Company have been served with subpoenas to appear before the United States circuit court in St. Louis Monday January 7, next. United States Marshal William Henkel, who served the papers within the last week, says it was the easiest task of his life.

Subpoenas were served on Henry H. Rogers, Henry M. Flagler, Charles M. Pratt, Oliver H. Payne, William Rockefeller and John D. Archbold besides John D. Rockefeller.

In addition to these seven men, who are named in the federal government's charges as being leaders in the Standard Oil Company, Marshal Henkel served subpoenas upon A. Harris, treasurer of the National Transit Company, the Crescent Pipe Line Company, and other alleged Standard corporations; S. A. Drew, secretary and treasurer of the Chesebrough Manufacturing Company, and J. C. Peabody, vice president of the Swift & Finch Company.

His deputies made service of papers on 11 other Standard Oil men, officers of the 71 subsidiary companies, who are made defendants with the Standard in the government suit.

Marshal Henkel said Mr. Rockefeller received him at his West Fifty-fourth street house Thanksgiving Day and treated him very pleasantly. "They didn't dodge and try to evade service," said Marshal Henkel. "When I got the papers from the court in St. Louis I just went out and served them."

SENATE CALLS FOR REPORT.

Requests the President to Give Information on Negroes' Discharge.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—The Senate today adopted the Pettus resolution requiring the President to send information regarding the discharge of the negro troops of the Twenty-fifth infantry, and also the Foraker resolution directing the Secretary of War to transmit all information in the possession of his department on the same subject.

Both resolutions carry an Brodrick amendment by Mr. Culberson asking specifically for the order to Major Penrose, commanding the troops, which directed him not to turn over to the Texas authorities certain of the soldiers demanded.

This action followed a debate of two hours and was taken without a roll call or opposing vote. The debate developed along two distinct lines, one as to the propriety of asking the President for the information or of directing the Secretary of War to furnish it, and the other an indignant speech by a few Senators in comment on the merits of the case.

JAPAN MOLLIFIED.

Threatened Trouble Averted by the President's Message.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—It was intimated on excellent authority today that the President's vigorous utterances on the treatment of the Japanese in his message were partly designed to forestall a serious clash with the Japanese empire. It is realized now that the feeling in Tokio resulting from the affronts put upon Japanese subjects in California was far more intense than has been indicated in news despatches. That feeling was so bitter that it not only endangered the success of the new treaty for the evacuation of Japanese subjects now on the eve of being instituted, but threatened to bring about the direst complications with the United States.

The developments of today in Washington showed that the President's utterances have completely changed the situation. Possibly a state of war could not exist, but there is no doubt that the danger of trouble with the great power of the Far East has passed. Now with the cordial reception given by the government, press and people of Japan to the commercial fleet, the whole aspect of affairs has changed.

This feeling among the best element was echoed by the Japanese ambassador, Viscount Aoki, during a personal visit to President Roosevelt yesterday. It became known today that Viscount Aoki had voluntarily gone to the White House and thanked the President for his complimentary allusions to Japan and the Japanese, and for his promise that the rights of those Japanese subjects residing in the United States would be thoroughly protected. The best of feeling prevailed at the interview, and no doubt can remain in the mind of the Japanese government, if any existed there, that the government of the United States is one of Japan's best friends.

What there is now lacking acute in the situation is indicated by the departure of Secretary Root from Washington for New York this afternoon. Mr. Root has been active in efforts to bring the Japanese trouble to an amicable conclusion and the President is relying upon his advice.

This government has felt certain from the first that the government of Japan was confident of the lack of sympathy on the part of President Roosevelt and his official advisers with the discriminations practiced against Japan in California, but there was fear that the people of Japan would become worked up over the matter to such an extent that the government at Tokio would be unable to resist popular pressure and would feel compelled for its own political safety to take radical action which would produce a clash between the two countries. That condition it is believed now, has been happily averted and everybody in Washington who was aware of the real situation is breathing much easier.

The California Commissioners are in a much better state of mind than they were when they first heard what President Roosevelt had to say in his message about direct immigration from Japan to the Pacific coast. They have been assured from the White House that the President's note is to be construed to give the naturalization force if necessary and every assistance to apply only to all Japanese eligible Japanese practically, so that no rights were disturbed with physical violence.

DEFEATS LITTLEFIELD'S BILL.

Friends of Measure Charge Action of House to Labor Federation.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—The House by a vote of 104 to 164, today defeated the bill of Representative Littlefield of Maine, forbidding discrimination against American sailors on the part of the shipping trusts.

This bill, so recently known as the anti-compulsory pilotage bill, has been the subject of many hearings in the committee on merchant marine and fisheries, and has excited great interest throughout the lake and ocean shipping sections of the country.

The debate lasted for four hours and a half, a good deal of it Republicans participating.

The result of the vote was a surprise to the friends of the measure, who openly charged its defeat to the American Federation of Labor. Many votes on the Republican side, however, were recorded as a protest against the invasion of the rights of the states.

The delegation from California as well as Representatives from other western states saw in the bill an opportunity to file a protest against interfering the rights of states to deal with the pilotage at first hand, and they availed themselves of the opportunity to go upon record.

ADVISE REJECTION OF OFFER.

Textile Council Recommends New Bedford Unions Refuse 7½ Per Cent.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Dec. 6.—At a meeting of the Textile Council held tonight it was voted that it be recommended to the unions of the city that the manufacturers' offer of 7½ per cent be rejected. What action the unions will take in this matter will be decided at a meeting to be held Saturday afternoon, when the recommendation of the Textile Council will come up for action. It is probable that the recommendations will be adopted and that the men will stand out for 10 per cent or nothing.

The Textile Council will meet Saturday evening to receive the instructions of the unions. In case of refusal to accept the proffered increase and the refusal of the manufacturers to increase this to the much-wanted amount, no immediate action in the strike line is looked for.

ANIMALS THAT WEEP.

A writer in the current Harper's Weekly notes some curious and interesting facts concerning "animals that weep." He says that travelers through the Syrian desert have seen horses weep from thirst, a mule has been seen to cry from the pain of an injured foot, and camels, it is said, shed tears in streams. A cow sold by its mistress who had tended it from calfhood wept pitifully. A young colt she used to cry from vexation if Livingstone didn't nurse it in his arms when it asked him to. Wounded apes have died crying and apes have wept over their young once slain by hunters. A chimpanzee trained to carry water-jugs broke one, and fell to crying, which proved sorrow, though it couldn't mend the jug. Rats, discovering their young drowned, have been moved to tears of grief. A giraffe which a huntsman's rifle had injured, began to cry when approached, scientists often weep over the loss of their young."

Constipation

Baked sweet Apples, with some people, bring prompt relief for Constipation. With others, coarse all wheat bread will have the same effect. Nature undoubtedly has a vegetable remedy to relieve every ailment known to man, if physicians can but find Nature's way to health. And this is probably true with regard to Constipation.

The Herb of a certain tree in California—Cascara Sagrada—offers a most excellent old remedy, but, combined with Egyptian Senna, Slippery Elm Bark, Solid Extract of Prunes, etc., this same Cascara Bark is given its greatest possible power to correct constipation. A toothsome Candy Tablet, called Lax-ets, is now made at the Dr. Shoop Laboratories, from this ingenious and most effective prescription. Its effect on Constipation, Biliousness, Sour Stomach, Bad Breath, Sallow Complexion, etc., is indeed prompt and satisfying.

No grip or no unpleasant after effects are ever noted. Lax-ets are put up in beautiful lithographed metal boxes at 5 cents and 25 cents per box.

TO SET WINTER SPAR BUOYS.

Customary Change to be Made in Narragansett Bay and Vicinity About December 20.

According to the usual custom, several can, gas and bell buoys will soon be removed from Narragansett bay and nearby waters and replaced with the winter spar buoys. The change will probably take place about December 20 and the territory affected will be that comprising the Third district, which is Narragansett bay and vicinity and part of the eastern end of Long Island sound, with adjacent bays and coves.

This change is made because of rough weather and ice which would be likely to damage the bell and gas buoys and very probably destroy them entirely, or carry them off the obstructions which they are designed to indicate. All can, bell and gas buoys on the Atlantic affected by ice or bad weather, are replaced during the winter months by simple spar buoys, painted and numbered in the same manner as are the others.

The order for the change of buoys comes from the office of John A. Rodgers, U. S. N., inspector for the Third district, at Tompkinsville, Staten Island, N. Y. It reads as follows:

"Notice is hereby given that about December 20, 1906, the following-named buoys in the Third district will be withdrawn from their stations for the winter and replaced by spar buoys of the same color and number: Ohio ledge buoy, H. S. James ledge buoy 1, Despair island bell buoy, 3½, Narragansett bay; Common Fence point shoal bell buoy, 2, Mount Hope bay; Little Gull island reef buoy, 1, Long Island sound, N. Y.; Ram Island reef buoy, 14, Fisher's island sound, N. Y., and Conn.; Middle Ground west buoy, 6, Fisher's island sound, N. Y.; Goose Rocks Shoals bell buoy, 8½, Long Island sound, Conn.; Golf island buoy, H. S.; Gardiner's bay, N. Y."

PORTSMOUTH.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

The cottage of Miss Jennie Davol, opposite Eureka Hall, was sold Monday to Dr. Minot A. Steele, bringing about $2,500.

The concert to be given for the benefit of the Home for the Aged in Newport is under the management of Mrs. Frederick A. Field and good talent for the occasion is promised from both in and out of town.

Mrs. William P. Macomber has been at the home of her cousin, Mrs. Emma A. Tallman, a part of this week.

St. Mary's Guild met with Mrs. I. Lincoln Sherman Wednesday.

The storm ceased and the sky cleared Thursday evening, in time for a large number to enjoy dancing at the Masonic Fair to the music of Groff's orchestra.

Mr. Charles Holman of this town and Mr. Herbert Wilcox of New Bedford, both carpenters, expect to start for San Francisco Monday, drawn thither by the inducement of large wages, although some claim that the high price of board and all needful articles counterbalances the increase.

Miss M. Finis Macomber is spending the week in Taunton with her grandmother, Mrs. G. Mason Chase.

Mr. and Mrs. William Borden from one of the Central states, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Borden.

Miss Kate B. Fish was able to attend the golden wedding Wednesday, it being her first pleasure trip for many months. She seems to be gaining quite rapidly.

Many of the guests from away at the golden wedding were natives of the town and had lived here a great part of their lives. So numerous were these that it seemed like an Old Home Week.

NEW COOK BOOKS.

A cook book which will be welcomed by housekepers is "Louis' Salads and Chafing Dishes," by Louis Muckensturm. It is the work of three masters in the art of cooking. Two are head chefs of leading clubs in Boston, while the third holds a responsible position in a Bohemian resort of the same city. The recipes are new and written especially for this book, most of them being only for three or four persons. Besides salads and chafing dishes, the list includes canapees, hors d'oeuvres, sauces, relishes, eggs, cheese, sandwiches and fruit desserts. In addition there are hints on carving, how to make a bill of fare, menus for small card parties, with advice as to how to use a chafing dish. At the end of the book are several blank pages, "for your own receipts." It is an attractive cook book, long and narrow in shape, with gilt design on the cover and pretty borders in tint on each page. It is published by the H. M. Caldwell Company.

A companion volume to "Louis' Salads and Chafing Dishes," from the same firm, is "Louis' Mixed Drinks," having the same designs on cover and inside pages. Directions are given to serve and drink wines, the various liquors which should accompany certain articles of food and the characteristics of some of the chief wines in use, while several pages are devoted to "Vintages from 1880 to 1905." The recipes include rules for making cocktails, bottled cocktails, fizzes, highballs, punches, cups, mixed cordials and miscellaneous drinks.

Another form of cook book, "101 Mexican Dishes," compiled by May E. Southworth, should also be a boon to housekeepers who are in search of something new. These dishes are adapted to American kitchens, and will be found dainty and appetizing. Of course one must be fond of the chile and garlic, as well as pepper, to appreciate this kind of cookery, for no food is prepared in Mexico without these condiments. The little book contains recipes for soups, vegetables, fish, meat, fowl, desserts, enchiladas, tamales and olla podrida. "101 Mexican Dishes" has just been added to the Epicurean Thrills Series, published by Paul Elder & Co.

THE BRACELET FAD.

[The Star.]

In these days of display a wrist guiltless of ornament is to confess oneself oblivious of fashion. The bracelet fad, so long dormant, has come to life with more than old-time vigor, and it appears to have come to stay.

The newest bracelets are, paradoxically, exceedingly old. That is to say, the designs most in favor are nearly all modeled after the antique, some of them even after the barbaric. There are, for instance, bracelets whose Egyptian prototypes were found in the sarcophagi unearthed at Thebes, and there are others of Roman pattern which are perfect replicas of ornaments discovered among the ruins of Pompeii. The Orient, too, has been ransacked for models. Most of these are armlets rather than bracelets—heavy, bangle-shaped gewgaws that might have come direct from the brown arm of some Indian Maharani. Some of them are beautified with precious and semi-precious stones, while others are exquisite specimens of filigree work and beaten metal, which need no gems to enhance their quaint beauty. The Oriental jade bracelets, mounted in gold or silver filigree, are at once curious and costly.

The snake bracelet is one of the most popular of the new models, and, incidentally, it is one of the most becoming. So flexible that it adapts itself to every movement of the arm, it is a veritable marvel of the goldsmith's art. Occasionally it is studded with gems, but oftener it displays simply a pair of jeweled eyes, usually diamonds, sapphires or emeralds. These bracelets are especially useful for keeping in place the elbow-length gloves.

Some of the most beautiful bracelets are those made of carved rose coral, set in gold filigree mountings. The best examples are quite expensive, the workmanship being of fine quality and executed entirely by hand.

The displays of cameos and intaglios suggest a use for the semi-antique brooches and ear drops worn by our grandmothers in ante-bellum days. In Etruscan mountings of dull gold, held together by slender golden links, these make charming bracelets for the twentieth century belle.

Among fashionable women to whom money is no object there is a marked fancy for bracelets of original and exclusive design. A woman artist who has a genius for working in metals has seized the opportunity thus afforded, and now gives her time almost entirely to the making of odd and beautiful bracelets, often using over discarded pieces of jewelry brought to her by her patrons.

TEN PAGES.

THE NATIONAL INCOME.

The administration is certainly lucky, and so is the Republican party. Of course a campaign orator would say that the prosperity which has unexpectedly increased the national revenue was created by the Republican party, and so there was no luck about it—just that natural gift for beneficent government which Speaker Cannon says his party and no other possesses. But the election is over and the spellbinders are out of commission.

Two years ago it appeared that the treasury was to experience a series of deficits and if Congress didn't cut down expenses, which is very unpleasant, it would be obliged to impose new taxes which is very unpopular. But that prosperity to which the country is fairly rolling has increased the import duties and the internal revenue beyond the anticipation of the treasury, and Congress can go ahead appropriating on the basis that this is "a billion-dollar country" without immediate apprehensions of reaching the bottom of the money bins in the treasury.

A year ago, when nearly half the current fiscal year had passed, so that estimating until the end of June looked pretty easy, the Secretary of the Treasury estimated a deficit of $8,000,000 at the end of the fiscal year, but the year closed with a surplus of $25,000,000. The collections from customs proved to be $11,000,000 more than the Secretary expected which made his last annual report and the federal revenue overran his estimates near the middle of the year by $7,000,000, while the departments did not succeed in spending as much as was expected by the sum of about $11,000,000.

So there is no occasion for economy and no need to worry. Still it might be just as well to pass a part of the surplus in reducing the public debt, that is what they did with it 15 or 20 years ago, but we were infatuated with the notion of being a "world power."

A LEGISLATIVE REFERENCE BUREAU.

The state librarian has taken an important step toward the improvement of legislation in this commonwealth by the inception of a legislative reference bureau as a new department of the library. The plan provides for the collection and arrangement of the laws of the different states of the Union, and all pending legislation, so prepared as to be accessible readily and helpful for the assistance of members of the General Assembly and others interested in new legislation. It is proposed, the library to provide all needful information bearing upon the laws of different states, so that those who make the laws for this commonwealth or who are interested in the progress of wise legislation may act intelligently.

This is the plan which was originated by Charles McCarthy, a graduate of Beloit University, to which reference has already been made in these columns, except that Mr. McCarthy has carried it farther and created what is known as the Wisconsin Idea. State Librarian Eastman aims only to collect and make available laws already passed or pending somewhere in this country, while the "Wisconsin Idea" seeks to do a wider work and to collect and furnish information upon a larger number of subjects connected more or less directly with administration as well as legislation. The new department of the state library is such as it ought to be or a part of that institution, and it can be made useful in its more limited sphere, though the more extended work of a "Peoples' Lobby" is likewise needed here.

Of course the value of this legislative reference bureau will depend upon the extent of the use made of it by the members of the General Assembly and others interested in present or proposed legislation. Such a collection, important in itself, would possess little worth if left unused, and so it remains for the law makers and the people to prove the utility of this new department of the state library. That it will prove of great value if it is rightly and generously employed is self-evident, and State Librarian Brigham is entitled to the thanks of the people of the commonwealth for the interest he has shown and the work he has undertaken in this connection.

It is often the case that the fate of some bill before the legislature is decided without full and accurate knowledge of the subject on the part of the members who vote upon the matter. For this condition in the past the legislators have not been altogether culpable, as the state has possessed no fund of information upon subjects under consideration in the legislature, and private efforts to secure practical knowledge of such subjects are not often successful. But with the information which is desired readily at hand when needed there will be little excuse in the future for ignorance regarding the merits or demerits of proposed legislation.

Under the new conditions which will obtain because of the establishment of this legislative reference bureau there will be little cause for hap-hazard legislation and the result should be a great improvement in the character of the laws enacted in this state. There are not a few statutes on the books which are founded upon misinformation and full of loopholes, which could not have been passed in their present form if those who voted for them had been supplied with accurate knowledge concerning them. The new bureau will correct this defect and all who will may acquire the information needed to advocate intelligently and vote wisely concerning all proposed new laws.

CURRENCY INFLATION.

There is a quite needless apprehension in many quarters that the emergency currency which would be provided under the scheme framed by the bankers' commission would amount to inflation. If not carefully guarded and heavily taxed so that banks would not issue it unless money rates were high and would retire it again at the earliest opportunity. Those critics seem to think that what is needed—or all that it would be safe to supply—is a measure to modify the severity of a stringency rather than prevent it. They think we might have a system under which money rates would not go above a certain point, but that it would be impracticable or unsafe to try to get along with no stringency at all.

This apprehension is not unnatural, but it is wholly without foundation, for it entirely overlooks the efficient system of redemption which is proposed. This neglect is not singular. We have never had an effective redemption system under the national banking law and bankers themselves have forgotten that there is any such thing. Yet we had it in New England before the war, established without the support of law even, by the Suffolk Bank of Boston, and we have it working constantly in Canada and operating like clockwork. Every fall the Canadian currency increases 25 to 30 per cent and every winter it contracts 15 or 20 per cent, some increase from year to year of course being required by the growth of wealth and the volume of trade. Every bank is trying to put its own notes into circulation, and to make room for them it sends back to the issuing banks all other notes as fast as it receives them. The result is that the currency increases when needed and decreases when not needed.

For many years this system has been working perfectly on the other side of the Great Lakes. Yet our currency doctors know little or nothing of it. The bankers' commission proposes an effective system of redemption, but it does not fully appreciate its own scheme and feels that taxes and other restraints are essential to prevent that inflation of which redemption is the ample preventive.

The condition of affairs in Russia may hasten the changes in President Roosevelt's cabinet. The Russian Duma will meet March 1, and it is deemed advisable that the new American ambassador should have been at his post at least a month before that date, in order that he may have become familiar with conditions in St. Petersburg before the meeting of the national congress. So it is expected that Secretary Shaw will retire February 1 instead of March 4, in order that Secretary Cortelyou may become Secretary of the Treasury and George von L. Meyer Postmaster General, leaving the Russian ambassadorship, to be filled not later than that time.

Senator Hale chairman of the committee on naval affairs, says Congress will do something handsome for the navy at this session. Senator Hale is in accord with President Roosevelt's recommendation that the fleet be maintained at its present strength, or else being authorized annually to replace ships dropped from the list. "The President," said Senator Hale, "knows he is not an advocate of the largest navy in the world and is not as extreme as most naval officers and the Secretary of the Navy in seeking immense increases."

More than 2,000,000 persons were carried daily in New York, over 1,000,000 in Brooklyn, and 3,500,000 in the five boroughs of Greater New York, on the various transit systems for the three months ended September 30. Records for one day's traffic in Manhattan were made in September, when the surface lines carried 1,797,834 passengers and the "L," 877,781. Coney Island business caused the Brooklyn Rapid Transit to pass the two-million-a-day mark frequently in July and August.

Colonel Winston Churchill announces positively that he will not be a candidate for United States Senator from New Hampshire, but will remain at home to forward the legislative program of the Lincoln Republican Club. He can probably in this way do more to promote the desired reforms for which he stands than by going to Washington.

According to figures compiled by a mercantile agency, the average cost of living shows a marked advance since November 1, when it reached a high-water mark. The cost of commodities is now the highest since February, 1884.

It is a mistake to suppose that everybody in Newport was elected to an office last Tuesday. There were a large number of "also rans."

COMMENT ON THE NEWPORT ELECTION.

Now that Newport has elected her "town meeting" city government under the new charter there will be lively interest in the outcome of the novel experiment in municipal management to be inaugurated on January seventh next. With a mayor who is a Democrat in state politics, five aldermen of various political beliefs and 195 councilors elected without regard to their party views, the city's governmental machinery should be in a position to respond promptly to the impulse of public sentiment. From the information at hand the impression is obtained that the so-called "Combine," now and for several years past in control of Newport's civic affairs, will go out of existence upon the establishment of the new city government. It has not been charged that the "Combine" has been in all things, or even in many things, prejudicial to the city's material interests, but for a considerable period intelligent observers, including the leading spirits in the Citizens' Municipal League, which took an active and most influential part in the election, have been convinced that its dissolution might prove of substantial advantage to the community. —[Providence Tribune.

Newport is reformed on a high-tonal basis all right. The roster of her new city government reads very like a blue book. Think of Alderman DeLancey Kane and Councilmen Livingston Beekman, Louis Lorillard and Rear Admiral Luce, for instance. Here's that their official careers may reflect credit on their toplofty social position. [Boston Herald.

As the Municipal Association was foremost in support of the new charter at Newport, it is well that it should elect a majority of both branches of the city government under the amended regime. The experiment is confided to the care of its friends for the next year, and the outcome will be watched with interest in many other cities.—[Providence Journal.

Newport cheers the hearts of the Rhode Island Democracy by choosing a Democratic mayor in the first election under the new city charter.—[Providence News-Democrat.

Those ballots used in Newport to elect the Representative Council of 195 members should be distributed for use as blankets these cold nights.—[Woonsocket Reporter.

Newport's municipal election indicates the existence of a belief there that some members of the cottage colony can be trusted to do some work.—[Providence Tribune.

Every man would like to have his own way, but the older he grows the more thankful he is that he didn't have it.—[Philadelphia Record.

UNIQUE DISCOVERY IN EGYPT.

Excavation of Two Temples Dedicated to Various Gods and to Hathor, Mistress of the West.

[London Telegraph.]

A discovery at present unique in Egypt was announced by Mr. F. G. Hilton Price (president) at the general meeting of the Egypt Exploration Fund, held at Burlington House, Piccadilly, recently. While excavations were going on at Deir-el-Bahari, a shrine containing its goddess was found intact, and the oldest temple at Thebes was unearthed.

When all the rubbish had been cleared away the top of an arch became visible, made of two blocks leaning against each other. A hole having been made underneath, it was found that this arch was the fore part of an arched room or shrine, in which was discovered a natural-sized Hathor cow, cut out of sandstone and painted, in a perfect state of preservation. This was the great find of the year. It was the first time on record that a shrine containing a god or goddess had been met with intact. A message was at once dispatched to Cairo, and soldiers were sent to guard it; but before they arrived Mr. Currelly, who was engaged in the work, sat up all night with the charge to protect her from harm.

The cow is of the same type as its modern representative. Is painted a reddish brown, with curious black spots in the form of a four-leaved clover, and on both sides of the neck are papyrus flowers and buds. The shrine in which it was found was built of sandstone blocks, covered with stucco, and elaborately painted and cultured with pictures of Thothmes and Merit Ra and the cow of Hathor. The whole of this shrine was taken down and carefully transported, together with the cow, to Cairo, where it has been rebuilt in the Cairo Museum. The neck of the cow bears the cartouche of Amenophis II, the son of Thothmes III of the eighteenth dynasty. It is in high relief, showing that it was contemporary.

Experts declare this to be the finest specimen of Egyptian animal sculpture yet found.

In an address read by Mr. Hall M. Naville, who has been carrying out these excavations, said Deir-el-Bahari would be a lasting work of the fund of Egypt. It was one of the great attractions, and one of the most striking sights of all the antique remains at Thebes. When they had carried away the two mounds of rubbish on both sides of the ramp, the whole end of the valley at the foot of the majestic cliffs of Deir-el-Bahari would be cleared and open, and the visitors crossing from the river would have before his eyes, not a labyrinth of rubbish mounds, but two temples of remarkable design, dedicated to various gods, and chiefly the goddess who was supposed to dwell in the caves of the mountain, and to go down occasionally to the river—Hathor, mistress of the West. One of these temples, the largest, was built by a mighty queen; its pillars had been re-erected, and its ceilings restored by the fund, so as to protect the sculptures.

REV. CHARLES W. GORDON.

[Robert Haddow in Book News Monthly]

It will undoubtedly interest the millions of Ralph Connor, the novelist, to know something of Rev. Charles W. Gordon, the preacher. Visitors to Whittier who inquire the way to St. Stephen's will find a splendid new building, which was completed and dedicated during the past summer. In the pulpit, on most Sundays of the year, they will see a man of 43—tall, slender, and well set-up, with a pale, intellectual face. His voice, as he speaks, is soft and clear. He reads with expression, and his prayers are reverent and intimate. He is not what is usually called a popular preacher. His physique and temperament are not those of the orator. But for one who comes to church to receive instruction, counsel, and help for the daily life, Mr. Gordon has a message.

He thinks clearly, and, as might be expected, expresses himself in chaste and elegant language. He has more than a touch of his father's imagination, and in a descriptive passage he makes the scene seem very real to his hearers. He has great personal charm, being modest and approachable, and above all possessing the faculty of sympathetically interesting himself in the interests of other people. Remembering the large number of young people far from home, who live in the hotels and boarding houses of a city like Winnipeg, the new St. Stephen's has been completely fitted up with parlors and recreation-rooms, where those without homes may spend evenings amid pure and helpful surroundings.

Mr. Gordon's attractiveness to young men is increased by the fact that he is unaffectedly interested in sport and outdoor life. As we have said, he was a football player at the university, and it is on record that in his Manitoba mission field he won his way into the confidence of the youthful members of his flock by his prowess as a baseball pitcher. His favorite holiday is spent in a canoe, far from the habitation of men, threading by day the windings of a Canadian waterway, and lying by night upon the fragrant fir, close to the ample bosom of mother earth.

FUND FOR ENTERTAINING ON NAVAL VESSELS.

Congress will be asked by the bureau of navigation to make an appropriation for official entertainments on board naval vessels when sent to foreign shores. It will be argued that in their duty of showing the flag and cultivating friendly relations in foreign countries naval officers are forced, for the honor of their service and the country, to spend an appreciable amount of their own pay for entertainments, which the expense should be borne by the government. In other countries ample provision is made for such expenses.

LIABLE FOR NEGLIGENCE.

But Not for Damages for Wi 61- ing of the Road.

Opinion of the Court in the Hall Case Aqainst the Railroad.

Judge Sweetland presided and the trial in the cases of Hall vs. Newport & Providence Street Railway Company proceeded in the superior court this morning, the opening being at 9:30. The company put in its evidence. Benjamin Anthony of Portsmouth, a member of the town council (who has a pass on the street railroad) and Henry Hedly testified.

John B. Cornell, who has held several positions in the town of Portsmouth, affirmed. He lives on Quaker hill. He was president of the town council when the street railroad went through. The railroad was built according to directions of the town council. The road did some things without direction of the council; witness thought he was asked about these matters.

Charles H. Ward of Middletown testified. He saw the place in question yesterday. From four to six feet of the bank was left. At one place the cut was closer. Saw no stone disturbed in the wall. This was the first time he ever examined the place. He walked along. It was raining. He went in a regular car. He was there before the jury arrived—and paid his way.

Abraham C. Chase of Portsmouth testified. Never saw the north entrance open. The one near the blacksmith shop is better than formerly. The approaches to the south farm are about the same as before. Where the switch is built the cut goes in on a circle. Tuesday morning witness went along the wall. It has stood two winters, and has not given away. He went the whole length inside the wall of the south farm. The railroad goes through witness's land. He made a deal with the road, about some stone, and so received satisfaction.

Edward A. Brown, president of the street railroad, testified. Knows the premises in question. Made measurements. He gave the width of the bank, measured at every pole, starting at the schoolhouse—the southern boundary. At the first pole the bank was 5 feet wide at the second 7 feet 8 inches, at the third 5 feet 6 inches (the narrowest place between these poles was 3 feet 4 inches), at the fifth 4 feet, at the sixth 4 feet, at the seventh 4 feet 9 inches, at the eighth 6 feet, at the ninth 5 feet 11 inches, at the tenth 5 feet 9 inches, between that and the eleventh for 110 feet it is about 18 inches, at the twelfth and thirteenth (Bradford station) 9 feet, at the fourteenth 12 feet, opposite the blacksmith shop 19 feet 9 inches, at the fifteenth pole 11 feet 3 inches, at the switch the nearest point is right up to the wall, but the land is level; at the sixteenth pole 11 feet, at the seventeenth 12 feet 3 inches. The trolley poles are outside of all these measurements. There are capstones off the walls, the same as off other walls.

At east and west wall is affected more by winter than a north and south wall. The last two winters are a good average. The best wall on these premises is now where the excavation comes nearest to it. Any approach that will permit an engine with 10 or 20 tons of crushed stone to pass should be a satisfactory one. A pair of horses carries two tons. At the switch the earth is taken away from the wall a good part of the 110 feet. There is no denial of that. The land is stony. Walls are sometimes up a foot from the land on either side of them. Walls that are up often stand for years.

The pole at the north entrance, in question, would not keep anybody out. One could go in with eight horses. The railroad frequently moves poles to accommodate abutters; has never been asked to move this one. A 17-foot approach would make the north entrance right and some loads of earth would make right the cut near the wall. If a wall stood two winters, witness would wait until it began to fall before he worried about it. It makes a difference if a wall has stood 30 years and become settled.

Frederick B. Coggeshall, a director of the railway, testified. Was with Mr. Brown when the measurements were made, and they are correct. At the north entrance the drop is 4 feet 6 inches and the bank is 8 feet 10 inches wide. (This was changed to 12 feet 3 inches, the other figures being for poles beyond the land in question).

Defendant rested and the court sent the jury to its room for a recess.

Then the court talked with counsel, asking what the highway is and if the town could not work the whole of it or allow it to be worked. Colonel Sheffield said the last question had been decided. An abutter has a right to lateral support and an absolute right of approach. If the town had worked the road for 20 years at a definite grade, it could not alter it. But the town has not acted in this matter. A corporation cannot go on a highway and make such changes as will undermine a wall and cut off approach—without compensation.

The court spoke of the cut to place a platform to load gravel as being outside the other privileges of the railroad. The town council had made the railroad a part of the worked highway. It does not appear in the declaration, but the highway had an established grade which the railroad had changed, whereas there never was a locally established grade in this highway. The court said it seemed to him that the town had a right to work the road wider if it desired, and under its charter the street railroad could be permitted to work it and if, incidentally, plaintiff is damaged he can recover, if there is negligence, or a pole has been so placed as to obstruct an entrance, that could be recovered for, but for damages for simply widening the road there could not be recovery. There is nothing to show that anything unreasonable has been done.

The jury was brought back and Mr. Burdick argued for defendant from 12:31. The road extends from wall to wall. The town can raise or lower a grade, and there is no remedy. What has been done was lawfully done, and there is no remedy. One brother says the value has decreased; the other says it is increased. If a little earth has crumbled out something might be awarded for that; the wall is not affected. No damage has been suffered yet, after two winters. It is not a question of the future.

The pole was located where the town council directed it. The entrance is not accessible because the town, acting through the railroad, has so worked the road that the entrance cannot be reached. The pole is not the reason the entrance cannot be used. Mr. Burdick claimed that both farms are more easily approached than before the railroad went through. Everything else was done lawfully and could not be recovered for; the pole is not an entrance which couldn't be used if the pole was not there. The $1,000 claimed dwindles to a fraction that could not be reckoned in more than cents. The verdict should be for defendant.

Colonel Sheffield argued for the plaintiffs from 12:21. Before the road went through plaintiffs had access to the whole of their front. The 116 feet switch which went into "zero" as they call it (presumably because the ice and snow could get at the wall) was for temporary use. Mr. Hall has been making the south entrance more usable, remedying the condition left by the railroad company.

The court rules that no damages can be recovered for the change of grade, but for wrongful acts damages can be recovered. A runway was constructed, cutting in against the bank—a serious damage. The bank is cut down plumb with the wall; or "zero," as was said. If there are wrongful acts, recovery must be now—once for all time. It means expenditure to keep the wall up for all time.

The value of the premises before and after has nothing to do with the case. Many things may happen in a few years to affect the value of property. Some 2,500 acres have been taken out of farming land in Portsmouth by the Vanderbilts and others. Farming land has become more valuable.

Colonel Sheffield closed at 12:48 and a recess to 2 p. m. was taken.

COLD AND WINDY.

Another variety of winter weather is furnished for Newport today. It had been quite pleasant until shortly after 1 o'clock this morning, when the wind came out from the northwest, and first it hailed and then it snowed. About daylight the wind began to breeze up and those who were out today know that it was breezing some. The snow did not amount to much, though it shows out on the Island, where there was grass. The temperature at the head of Long wharf at 4 this morning was 40—very comfortable. At noon at the same place it was 24 and very breezy.

The Priscilla, which came in from New York, reported heavy seas, but the Pilgrim, for New York, left here on time and plowed through the seas without difficulty. Block Island steamer New Shoreham, after taking a look at conditions outside yesterday afternoon, returned and remained here until 6 this morning, when she left for the Island.

That conditions outside are not good is shown by the fact that seven tugs are tied up at Perry Mill wharf and four at the Long wharf docks. This means that there are a large number of barges in this section today.

Only one marine disaster was reported about here today. Schooner Eliza Jane of New Bedford blew away her jib as she came into the harbor, but was not otherwise damaged. The wind was a trifle stiff for that jib.

REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS.

The deed from Carrington C. Arnold, executor of the estate of Minnie S. Arnold, to Frances S. Whitehouse, wife of W. Fitzhugh Whitehouse, of the Arnold estate on Rhode Island avenue, has been filed for record at the city clerk's office. The consideration named is $10,000.

Mrs. Julia E. Sands, executor of the estate of F. P. Sands, has transferred to the Rhode Island Hospital Trust Company, as trustee under the will, the real estate of the estate in trust, under the provisions of the will.

Georgianna Albro and Charles H. Albro have transferred to Joseph W. Albro, trustee under the will of John W. Murphy, their interest in the estate on Washington street.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Wessell have returned to New York.

—Letter Carrier Philip Harrington is on his annual vacation.

—The Women's Association of the United Congregational Church gave a successful supper in the chapel last evening, netting a considerable sum towards the new guild house fund.

—Owing to the inability of Mrs. Stanley F. Hughes to be present at the mothers' meeting at Player School this afternoon, Mrs. Henry Elwood will give her talk on the "Home Training of the Child," instead.

Mr. John W. Covell is arranging for his annual vacation. He will be detained here later than usual this year, owing to an accident which resulted in a broken wrist. He will soon be able to carry his arm in a sling.

Tomorrow will be the Feast of Immaculate Conception. Masses will be celebrated at St. Mary's Church at 5:30, 7 and 9, and at St. Joseph's at 5:30, 7 and 8. The triduum which began at St. Joseph's Wednesday evening will close this evening at the 7:30 service.

—Converted yacht Scorpion, en route to Boston from Norfolk, put in here last night on account of the storm. This morning she made a start to resume her trip, but the weather and sea were so unpropitious that she returned to her anchorage back of the Torpedo Station.

—Colonel Kane, aldermen-elect, will return here Monday night from New York and will visit Newport several times before the organization of the new city government, January 7. He will make an enforced trip to Europe after the organization, but it will be at least six weeks before he will sail.

—There is to be a basket ball game this evening. The Melrose team was scheduled to play here, but one of the men is away and the team would not come without its full strength. Instead it secured the Jamaica Plain team to come, the manager stating that the substitute would give satisfaction and play a good game.

—The Newport Yacht Club had another "thown" meeting last night, when 10 more new members were admitted. After the meeting the members were pleasantly entertained by Mr. J. H. Scarmecin, the retiring commodore, and the new members were enabled to see that the club is not a dead one, even if the season of pleasure boating has gone and the boats are hauled out.

—A pleasing entertainment was given last evening at the First Baptist Church for the benefit of the Christmas entertainment of the Sunday School. The program included readings by Mr. Fred P. Webber, vocal selections by Miss Annie Driscoll and the Esterno Quartet, violin solos by Master Raymond Bryce and Master Arthur Puddington and piano selections by Miss Gladys Knull.

GENERAL RESULTS UNAFFECTED

Williams Takes Eighth Place on First Ward Ticket.

Sattens and Spencer Change Positions —Pearson Gains two and is Tied. With Bachelier.

The board of Aldermen met again Thursday evening to continue the official count of the votes cast at the city election. All were present and with Mayor Cottrell assisting the same method of counting and checking that was adopted Wednesday was used. The handling of the ballots and the checking proceeded regularly until the count of the First ward was completed. This was done and the ballots sealed by 10:25. It was then so late that it was decided not to start the Second ward. That will be taken up this evening when the third night's count will begin.

As on the first night, City Solicitor Brown was on hand to decide any points that might be raised, and Judge Burke was there to look after the interests of the candidates endorsed by the Municipal Association. Neither had any special duties to perform because everything ran smoothly, and it was only occasionally that one of the aldermen found a curious sample of what a voter may do and called attention to it. There was one interested spectator. He was a candidate and he came up to see whether he fell or rung on. Mindful of the fate of the last man on the three year term he wanted to see just what was happening. As a matter of fact, when the count was completed he had gained one and the man next below him remained the same, No. 15, however, came up with a gain that put him ahead of No. 14 and very close to No. 13.

There were no changes that affected the general results and the 13 for each term found elected by the warden's count were returned as elected by the official count. There were, however, several shifts in position among the elect. In the two year term Charles F. Williams gained 16 votes, giving him a total of 232 and putting him into the eighth place ahead of Bartholomew Fogarty, whose vote was the same as reported by the warden, the official figures being Williams 232, Fogarty 228, S. W. M. Battens, No. 10 in the warden's count, lost 1, and E. L. Spencer, No. 11, gained two, and they change places, Mr. Spencer having 218 and Mr. Battens 216 by the official count. In the one year term Frank Morgan, No 3 on the warden's count, gained 2 and Thomas C. Freeborn, No. 4, gained 4. This shifted the positions of these two, for on the official count Mr. Freeborn has 269 votes and Mr. Morgan 268. Frank W. Pearson gained 2 and is tied at 231 with Henry C. Bachelier for the ninth place.

The following are the changes in the two terms: Two years—F. E. Gladding loses 4, William Brightman gains 10, W. H. King 1, N. King, Jr., 6, S. N. Booth, Jr., 2, Thomas Freece 1; Thomas Lucas loses 2, Charles F. Williams gains 10, S. W. M. Battens loses 1, E. L. Spencer gains 2, J. Barry Brown loses 2, Harry O. Harvey gains 1, W. J. Ladyman gains 4, E. E. Nickerson gains 1, O. W. Huntington loses 1, Thomas Twigg loses 3; James Jennings gains 2, C. A. Stenhouse 2, L. W. Barker 1, F. E. Hackett 3, Thomas Moon 1, E. P. Thurlen 5.

One year—John Parker gains 3, W. Hamilton, Jr., S. Frank Morgan 2, T. C. Freeborn 4, F. W. Winsor 3, W. E. Burke 3, F. W. Pearson 2, J. W. P. Powers 2, A. W. Amey 3, E. J. Sauljaugh 2. These are the elect. Of the near-elect W. H. Gilliam loses 3; A. Brandt gains 1, W. P. Fitzmaurice 6, Henry G. Riley 6, George A. Perkham 2, Henry C. Rush 3, Alva E. Rose 1; P. J. Buenzle loses 1, Jacob Anderson gains 3, H. C. Bichner gains 1, W. P. Nightingale loses 6 and F. A. Cochran gains 11.

In counting the ballots of the First ward it developed that few had marked more than the 13 they were allowed to vote for. As had been anticipated, some made a cross after every name. It was a waste of time and the crosses counted for nothing, as the ballots had to be thrown out. A few crossed more than 13 for some one term, but generally, in fact almost universally, the marking was clean and the ballots were exceptionally free from anything that could be called mistakes. Considering the number of names on the ballot in this ward, the fact that there was no party designation and that 13 candidates could be voted for on each of the Council tickets, the ballots were much better than had been expected and showed that the voters had used care in the marking and had evidently voted in an intelligent manner. It was quite a severe test of the ability of the voter to select candidates and mark them so that the vote would count. It was more severe in the First ward than in any other, because there were more candidates on the ballot and the work was therefore harder for both the voter and the counter than in any other ward.

NO TARIFF REVISION.

Action Not Considered Possible at This Session.

The President's Panama Message Will be Illustrated—Citizenship for Porto Ricans.

[Washington correspondence of the News]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—It is a foregone conclusion that the present session will do nothing with the tariff. The Democrats are clamoring for revision, and Representative John Sharp Williams, leader of the minority in the House, is out in an interview in which he says that if a change in the existing schedules is made the principal issue before the American people and is fully discussed and reasonably decided, there can be no hope for stand-patters. Mr. Williams expects the President to recommend revision, but is by no means hopefull that the Republican majority in Congress will carry out the recommendation in what he believes to be the proper way.

Some Republicans are almost as insistent for revision as the Democrats, but it is obvious that they are in a minority so far as their party is concerned. The Republicans from Massachusetts will continue to agitate the question of free hides, which they succeeded in getting pretty well to the front during the last session, but it is regarded as altogether unlikely that they will be able to accomplish anything tangible, even though they have the support of brother Republicans from Iowa and other middle western states.

Both the Democrats and Republicans who favor revision say that the November elections indicated positively that the whole country desires revision, too. As proof of this they cite the defeat of Representatives McCleary of Minnesota, one of the most prominent stand-patters in the House, and Representative Lacey of Iowa, another strong advocate of "letting well enough alone." Both these gentlemen made anti-revision campaigns, and the election of the men who opposed them is regarded by the revisionists as a plain indication of the temper of the people, not only in the two districts alone, but in the country as a whole.

The most inflexible among the anti-revisionists say that it is absurd to talk of any changes whatever. Some of their more conservative associates admit that a few schedules ought to be lowered and say they would be willing to have those few reductions made if it were possible to stop the movement there. But they say, if the question of revision were to be opened to even the slightest extent the inevitable result would be a general tearing up of the Dingley law. That, they point out, would be a very foolish thing for the Republican party to permit with a Presidential election less than two years distant. So eventually they get around to the same point as their brethren of the extreme stand-pat type—that it is best to let the tariff severely alone until after the national contest of 1908 is a thing of the past.

Some of the Republican leaders think it would be wise to meet whatever desire for revision may exist in the country by a definite promise that if the party is returned to power two years hence it will revise the tariff during the Sixty-first Congress, which will begin in 1909. In any event, it appears that if the tariff is not revised at the present session or at a special session to be called immediately or shortly after the present one comes to an end, nothing will be done with it until 1910. And there is not the slightest possibility that it will be revised between now and March 4.

Cattlemen from the West and Southwest have Representatives in Washington who are urging Congress to pass a law restoring that provision in the Dingley bill which authorized the President to negotiate reciprocity treaties with foreign countries. Through their agents the stock raisers are asserting that their foreign trade is being seriously interfered with as a result of existing tariff conditions, and that countries like Australia, New Zealand, Argentina and Canada, all of which favor the reciprocity idea, are getting more and more of the business which the United States were monopolized and which rightfully belongs to us.

Legislation concerning two subjects of great importance is to be urged by the President as a result of his recent trip to the canal zone and Porto Rico. Within the next few days he will send two special messages to Congress. One of these will sum up his observations concerning the canal, and outline the laws which he thinks should be enacted in order that the work on the great waterway may be expedited and carried to an early completion. The other will tell of conditions in Porto Rico and will insist that the lawmakers pass a bill conferring citizenship on the people of that island.

The President was highly gratified with the results of his personal observations on the Isthmus of Panama. He was able to spend only three days there, but that gave him sufficient time to investigate the most important features of the canal project and to collect a mass of first-hand information which will make the forthcoming special message very interesting. During the whole of his tour of the canal zone he saw only one thing which did not entirely please him, and that was one of the places in which some of the unmarried negro laborers at work on the canal are housed. The sanitary arrangements were not what they ought to be, the President thought, and he instructed those in charge to make an immediate change.

The President's message on the canal will be unique among the papers of the chief executives of the United States in that it will be illustrated. He is anxious to make the document as illuminating and instructive as possible and realizes that pictures will go a long way towards helping the people generally to understand the exact status of affairs on the Isthmus. The photographs which will be reproduced in the message will not only make clear the condition of different parts of the work, but will show the President at many of the various points he visited, so that his critics can have no possible ground for asserting that his investigation was not thorough.

Senator Foraker of Ohio already has a bill before Congress providing that Porto Ricans be made citizens of the United States, and the President's special message on that subject will naturally give the measure a considerable impetus. Indifference rather than any real opposition to the plan seems to have been responsible for the failure of Congress to act in the premises before this. The President believes that the conferring of American citizenship on the Porto Ricans is a matter of simple justice which should be attended to at once, and as his supporters in both houses of Congress will continue to push the proposed legislation vigorously, the general opinion is that it has a good chance of getting through before the end of the short session.

THE IDEAL SPORTING DOG.

[N. William Haynes in Recreation.]

The beagle is the ideal sporting dog for the thickly populated portions of the country. His disposition allows him to live at peace with his neighbors, both canine and human, and he is a constant source of pleasure both in the house and in the field. His board bills is not a large one, and his size is such that he can be stowed away, by the half dozen, under the seats of a wagon. His game is always plentiful. Partridge, grouse, prairie chicken, duck, pigeon, plover, goose or turkey may be extinct, but the little brown bunny, like the sparrow, is ever with us. Foxes, wolves, wild cats, mink, deer, bear, moose and elk may have departed for wilder and freer parts, but the rabbit lives on under the bramble bush, always there to afford a good day's sport to the beagler.

No one, however, will gainsay that bench shows and field trials have added much to the popularity of this breed. Rawdon Lee, in his admirable work, "Modern Dogs," says of the beagle: "This is perhaps the only variety of hound that has profited by the institution of bench shows. He has done this because he is small and affectionate, pretty and docile, and in many respects admirably suited to be a pet dog. Unfortunately, he is so true to his instinct of hunting the rabbit, and even the hare, as to prove a nuisance, rather than otherwise, especially in country places, where his melodious bell-like voice will be continually heard in the coverts."

The beagle is of all sporting dogs the most tireless in his pursuit of game, and he will make but an indifferent pet, unless removed from all opportunity for hunting. The earliest records, however, lay claim for him as a pet. A Boston writer claims that 2,000 years ago the lap dog of the Egyptian queen, Cleopatra, was a beagle. This is improbable, as is the story of their being hunted by the old Saxon king of England, Canute. More substantial is the claim that they were known in the days of the early Norman kings, when the strict game laws, made largely to protect the king's deer, prohibited the common people from keeping the larger hounds.

STOMACH'S IMPORTANCE.

How to Strengthen It so That It Will Act as It Should.

The Stomach Is the Principal Organ Concerned in the Digestion of Food. If It Is Weak, Inactive, or Out of Order and Unable to Properly Digest the Food, the Body Will Soon Be in a State of Semi-Starvation.

Then, too, when the stomach is weak, the food is not properly digested and lies in it for hours, decomposing, fermenting and forming poisonous gases and ptomaines that are absorbed into the blood, poisoning the system and impoverishing the blood.

To enjoy good health, it is absolutely necessary that the stomach and digestive organs should be strong, and no other remedy equals Mi-o-na in strengthening and giving tone to the whole digestive system.

Relief from the use of Mi-o-na is permanent and lasting. Use Mi-o-na for a few days, and the digestion will be good, the appetite keen, and there will be no nausea or distress after eating, no sleeplessness, no nervousness, and the headaches, backaches and disturbed heart action that are the direct result of a weakened stomach will soon be overcome.

Mi-o-na is sold under an absolute guarantee that the money will be refunded unless the remedy does all that is claimed for it. Ask Wright & Hay to show you the guarantee which they give with every 50-cent box.

COST OF NAVY $19,604,749.

Battleship Ohio the Most Expensive Craft in the Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—It cost $19,604,749 to keep the ships of the United States navy in commission during the past fiscal year, according to the annual report of Paymaster General H. T. B. Harris. Battleship Ohio was the most expensive craft, for it cost to put her in commission and keep here in service for the 12 months $714,245. On armored cruiser Colorado $524,057 was expended. The Brooklyn cost $399,830; the Baltimore $326,-691 and cruiser Chicago, one of the first ships of the new navy, cost $387,-794 to keep her afloat and on active duty. Battleship Iowa required the expenditure of $428,048 and the Oregon $308,422. The brand new armored cruiser Pennsylvania cost $521,343 to commission and run last year.

The building of new ships, including labor and material, cost the government during the last fiscal year $31,764,566 and repairs to ships $5,-550,309. The sum of $262,034 was expended on the naval militia of the states.

MILK STILL CHEAP.

Any Variation in Price Greeted With Every Evidence of Disapproval.

[Boston Transcript.]

Three reasons may be assigned for an upward tendency of milk prices in recent years, something which always occasions widespread comment, and often popular attempts at resistance.

The first of the reasons for the recent tendency comes in the increased cost of such of the feed for the cows as must be purchased by the farmer. He gets most of the concentrated nitrogenous foods in the shape of by-products of different industries, such as bran from the flour mills, gluten meal from the glucose factories, and cotton-seed meal. All of these have been advancing in price, and are in some instances 50 per cent higher than they were a few years ago. Secondly, farm labor is constantly growing more costly, chiefly because it is scarcer and less efficient. A third and highly important factor appears in the sanitary requirements which public authority now properly imposes. Methods which were once tolerated, if not commended, are by the world's increasing knowledge of bacteriology now absolutely condemned. It costs the farmer more to conform to these rising standards. Cleanliness, like ventilation, is expensive, even if a good article milk is still cheap. They show that it contains, at this season of the year, 13 per cent of total solids, which means 13 pounds of dry food material, all of which is digestible, for every 100 pounds of milk. If the milk costs nine cents a quart, this material comes to 35 cents a pound, or, on a basis of 11 cents a quart for milk, to 42 cents. Sirloin steak at 25 cents a pound, if subjected to the same tests, deducting non-edible material and moisture, costs 75 cents for the same digestible elements. But, however convincingly experts in the laboratory may argue along this line, the public seems exceptionally sensitive over any change in the price of milk. Steaks and chops may fluctuate in accordance with the laws of supply and demand, or at the dictum of the beef trust, perhaps, and the public feels that it can evade a little the burden of these prices, by some slight changes in the daily selections of table meats. But any variation in the price of milk which comes in a fixed quantity each day, bringing a bill as regularly as that of the gas company or water supply, is greeted with evidences of great disapproval.

HOME TESTIMONIALS.

A word from one at home carries more conviction than a speech from a stranger. We have thousands of testimonials from every part of the world, but we submit you now only those of your friends and neighbors.

If you are troubled with that awful heavy feeling across the chest, pains in the back, swelling of the stomach after eating, dizziness, etc., you have indigestion and need Dr. Richards Dyspepsia Tablets and Laxoconlits.

Mrs. Priscilla Pearson, of 115 Watson St., Central Falls, R. I., says:—

"I have been taking Dr. Richards Dyspepsia Tablets for the past few weeks and am a firm believer in their medicinal qualities. I saw them advertised at Wood's Drug Store and I procured a bottle of them. I was troubled very much after eating; my food would not digest and everything seemed to sour on my stomach; I was troubled a great deal with that terrible rifling of gases from the stomach, etc., but since I began taking your tablets all those distressing sensations are gradually passing away and my health is much better than for some time past. I recommend them as a very good proprietary article for Dyspepsia and stomach troubles."

For sale by all druggists. Better say "Richards" twice. Price 50 cents per bottle. Made by Dr. Richards Dyspepsia Tablet Association, 53 Worth St., New York.

BABY BOY'S ITCHING HUMOR

At Age of Two Weeks Great Sores Broke Out—Head and Face Were Terrible Sight—Treated by Doctors and Hospital but Child Grew Worse—Could Not Sleep.

CURED BY CUTICURA AT EXPENSE OF 75c.

"I wish to have you accept this testimonial, as your Cuticura has done so much for my baby. At the age of two weeks his head began to break out with great sores and at the age of two months his face and head were an awful sight. I consulted a doctor, who said it was nothing but a light skin disease which the baby would soon get over. He seemed to get worse, so I called another doctor. His opinion seemed to be the same. They both prescribed medicine that did not do a bit of good.

"A friend advised me to take him to the hospital, which I did. Two doctors gave me medicine that was in a liquid form. Their medicine did him no good. Nearly every day I would read a testimonial in regard to Cuticura and my wife thought she would try it to see if it would help the baby. I got a box of Cuticura Ointment and a cake of Cuticura Soap. After using these he has become entirely cured. He couldn't seem to sleep as his face and head would itch so. What hair he had all fell out and to-day he has a nice head of hair and his face is as clean as can be. (signed) C. H. Evans, 19 Allston St., Somerville, Mass., June 7, 1905."

A QUIET CITY SHOCKED.

Consternation Reigned Among Citizens Who Followed the Old-Time Customs.

(Manchester Mirror and American December 1882.)

There is no more quiet, respectable and conservative city on the American continent than Portsmouth. Tom Whipple insists that in these respects it is entitled to rank with Nineveh, Babylon and others of the same class that foreign scholars and savants are always exploring and bragging about; but be that as it may, there is no municipal territory this side the ocean better fitted to be the abiding place of a man who hates a racket, is proud of his ancestors, and has a steady income from permanent investments.

Time was when they built ships and bought and sold rum, soap and other groceries at Portsmouth; when there were greasy mechanics on her streets, and women in calico gowns in her houses, and dirty-faced children in her yards; but this has gone by. She retired from business long ago, and for years she has tolerated nothing that looked like a vulgar scramble for money within her borders. Her last factory, which had been looked upon as a nuisance by her best people, was turned down soon after the war, and the one man who was reckless enough to propose that it be rebuilt was driven away by the indignant citizens. She has farmed out her politics to several discreet dealers, who manage them without making a noise, and she has her blacksmithing done at Kittery, where the sound of the anvil will not disturb her reveries. Her sidewalks are of good, old-fashioned brick, and her houses are all supplied with brass knockers and andirons. Her citizens live on their incomes and venerate knee-breeches.

To such a people old customs are, of course, inexpressibly dear, and any attempt to set them aside, or modify them after the fashion of the jostling world outside, is looked upon as little better than robbing a family tomb of your grandfather's bones. One of these customs sets all the bells in town to tolling when a resident dies, and another one rings the one on the town house for 15 minutes each evening, beginning at nine o'clock, at which time all respectable candles go out, and all the first families go to bed.

It is needless to say that these were instituted before the oldest newspaper in America was published, or the first clock or watch was invented, but they have been sacredly kept up ever since. At least they were religiously observed until about a month ago, when Alderman William Martyn, a carpet-bag sort of a scoffer at graveyard mould and your great-grandfather's snuff-box, got into his head the notion that if a man died his neighbors would find it out from the newspapers and bury him, and that when folks began to grow sleepy they would consult their time-pieces and ascertain whether it was bedtime without wearing out the bells and the bellmen in furnishing the information.

Little that alderman knows about Portsmouth newspapers or Portsmouth people; but he had a presentiment that there would be trouble if he acted directly upon this idea, and he accordingly attempted to fool the aldermen by getting up in a meeting of the board and saying that he knew of a man who was sick and who was annoyed by this bell business, and because of this he moved that the mayor be instructed to have the tolling and the ringing dispensed with. The motion passed, and the next night there was no nine-o'clock bell. The result was trouble. Two hundred and twenty-seven matrons, who for 89 years have warmed their night gowns from 15 minutes before nine until the bell struck, stood through the live-long night holding them up to the grates, and were found there benumbed and stiff the next morning, by the milkmen from Rye. Six first settlers, in wigs and gold-headed canes, who have always taken an evening walk, leaving their houses at 8:40 and traveling south by the cemetery until the bell warned them to return, kept on and on their weary way, and they were taken up a week later by the police of Boston.

Sixteen sets of philosophers, who have met and played whist and drank punch until the curfew, every evening since Washington was inaugurated, kept at it until they fell under the tables. No stores were closed, no houses were locked, no shutters were put up at night. In short, from the time when the bell should have rung until morning, Portsmouth yawned and stretched and waited and said, 'What a long evening this is!' and so it sat and yawned and waited night after night and day after day until last week, when a stray copy of the Boston Herald was picked up in the street, and found to contain the horrible intelligence that the aldermen had stopped the curfew.

Then there was such an outburst of indignation as has not been seen since Congress proposed to abolish the navy yard; not a noisy outbreak, of course, but a deep, eminently respectable, solemn sort of a protest. Meantime the aldermen, having come to a realizing sense of the enormity of the crime, had fled the city. Bill Martyn, the arch-contriver of the innovation, was hid in the storehouse of Ward's distillery; Hackett had taken refuge behind the guns of Fort Constitution, and all the others were likewise missing, so the order could not be rescinded. One expedient remained. The church wardens, of whom ex-Mayor Sise is chief, made the necessary arrangements to have the bells on all the churches rung every night at nine o'clock, and whenever a man dies. And now Portsmouth goes decently to bed at that hour and sleeps the sleep of the just until morning, order is restored, and all is quiet upon the Piscataqua, but Bill Martyn is a ruined man.

THE LAST SLAVE SHIP.

[Harper's Magazine.]

Many things can be forgotten in 47 years, and probably few Americans remember the story of slave ship Clotilde that was run into Mobile bay and burned one dark night in 1859, and how its cargo of slaves was dumped off into the canebrakes and left, some to be picked up and sold, some to wander about and starve, and some to die of homesickness.

Notwithstanding that it all happened close to Mobile, scarcely any one in the year recalls anything of the facts. Only in an old scrapbook of a friend could I find a single printed word about them, and when this friend's daughter had once been to the strange settlement and had described some of the people's habits of life in a charming little dialect sketch, the dramatic situation seized upon me. A burning desire possessed me to see these remarkable people face to face. A chase followed among the old Negroes of Mobile, for somebody had said I would find among them a certain man who knew of the Africans. He also knew the road through the big dark swamp behind the city to their settlement. The fates were kind, and at last I found a white man who, in the old Confederacy days, had often been to the settlement. Knew the Africans well, and, in fact, at a certain time had had them under his control as a Confederate officer.

A drive of half a dozen miles over an elevated plank road and through a wilderness of trees and water brought us out to the clay hills by the Alabama river.

There was a cluster of sawmills close by in the "piney woods," and beyond these many negro cabins in rows. But their occupants were the common negroes, working in the mills and of recent arrival. It was little they knew of the real "Africans" as distinguished from themselves. After much inquiry and much running about the pineys and the pathetic looking Confederate breastworks that still stretch sullenly for a mile and more through the woods, we came to a few African houses. They were only dilapidated cabins, but surrounded with truck gardens and rose bushes. Hardly a dozen of the old Clotilde's victims are alive, though numbers of their children live near the settlement and have intermarried with the common negro.

Few of the captured ones had been more than 20 at the time of their enslavement, and all remembered the horrible details as if they had been experiences of a recent time. They were more stalwart in appearance and of finer physique than the American negro, whose ancestors have been long in bondage. Their eyes were brighter, too, their voices even softer and more melodious.

MAKING MONEY OUT OF A WASTE PILE.

(William Hard in Technical World Magazine.)

The people of Chicago are lucky. Witness the rock heap which was bequeathed to them by the contractors who dug the Chicago drainage canal. But what could be a harder stroke of bad luck than to be encumbered with a heterogeneous scrap pile of stone? How to rid themselves of monster heebus without depleting the city treasury, would be a question for the citizens to decide at any other time. But this is just the point where luck came to the rescue.

The people of Chicago are lucky because they dug their big ditch at the psychological moment. Just as the concrete age is being ushered in, and building contractors have visions of mountains of crushed stone and rivers of cement, the people of Chicago drop on to the market with 23,000,000 cubic yards of available rock. But even millions of cubic yards of rock could not break the Chicago faith in concrete, and the big contractor John M. Ewen jumped under the market with the highest bid for Chicago's back yard scrap pile. At the present price of crushed stone in Chicago, the waste heap will sell for as much as it cost to dig the whole drainage canal.

In addition to selling the crushed stone, concrete blocks are to be made right along the banks of the canal, and shipped to market. Just as bricks are at present. Mr. Ewen will install 500,000 dollars' worth of machinery, which will crush the stone and make it into concrete blocks. The actual cost of the drainage canal did not exceed $56,000,000 and Mr. Ewen believes that the crushed stone and cement blocks will sell for at least that amount. Thus will a new industry be established, and the people of Chicago reimbursed for their trouble in digging their big canal.

TORTURING PAIN.

Half This Man's Sufferings Would Have Killed Many a Person, But Doan's Cured Him.

Thousands of grateful people are telling every day how Doan's Kidney Pills cured them of distressing and dangerous kidney and bladder troubles.

Yet other thousands are suffering every day from these same ills. Why? They are either very negligent or very skeptical. Neglect of kidney disorders leads to dropsy, diabetes, Bright's disease and other fatal diseases.

Sincere, honest testimony like the following should convince every skeptic.

A. C. Sprague, stock dealer, of Normal, Ill., writes: "For two whole years I was doing nothing but buying medicines to cure my kidneys. I do not think that any man ever suffered as I did and lived. The pain in my back was so bad that I could not sleep at night. I could not ride a horse and sometimes was unable even to ride in a car. My condition was critical when I sent for Doan's Kidney Pills. I used three boxes and they cured me. Now I can go anywhere and do as much as anybody. I sleep well and feel no discomfort at all."

A. C. SPRAGUE

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mr. Sprague will be mailed on application to any part of the United States. Address Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Sold by all dealers; price, fifty cents per box.

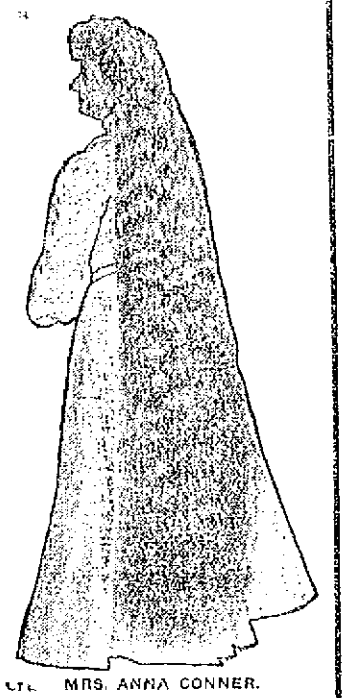
NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE

"I am sending you my photograph a show what Newbro's Herpicide has done for me.
"Since I first tried Herpicide upon my hair I have used it exclusively in giving scalp treatments to others, and I would not think of trying to get along without it."
(Signed) MRS. ANNA CONNER.
2507 Archer Ave., Chicago, Ill.



MRS. ANNA CONNER.

Hundreds of lady scalp specialists and hair dressers use and recommend Newbro's Herpicide, instead of products of their own manufacture upon which a much larger profit could be made. They claim that Herpicide makes friends for them and gives much better satisfaction. Some hair dressers use Herpicide for obstinate cases only, but why not use the best first?

Herpicide is a delightful dressing that can be used when there is no disease of the hair or scalp, and as an actual remedy for dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair it stands in a class singularly its own.

Many ladies object to a gummy and sticky hair dressing, or one that is full of sedimentary chemicals intended to dye the hair. The marked preference for a clean and dainty preparation, particularly one that overcomes excessive oiliness and leaves the hair light and fluffy, is reflected in the enormous sale of Newbro's Herpicide. Discriminating ladies become enthusiastic over its refreshing quality and exquisite fragrance. It stops itching of the scalp almost instantly.

THE WRECK OFF POINT JUDITH.

Loss of Life Due to the Men Having no Protected Landing for Launching Boats.

[Marine Journal, November 24.]

Shipping's first taste of real winter for this season was felt along the Atlantic seaboard last week and evidenced in disaster, accident and delay which overtook the smaller craft of all kinds more particularly. The wreck of schooner Lugano at Point Judith in a heavy, northeast gale, whereby three members of her crew were lost within 600 yards of the life-saving station, emphasizes again the urgent need of completing the partially constructed breakwater at that point, as no protected landing where they can launch their boat has yet been provided for the life savers. The breeches buoy was resorted to, but proved ineffectual to save any of the imperiled men. The Lugano was a two-masted schooner, built at East Machias, Me., in 1887, of about 171 tons burden and typical of the hundreds of vessels of her class, which should have a harbor of refuge under their lee six months of the year at least.

This loss of life is another that can be laid directly to the dilatory actions that have been pursued at Point Judith as a launching place to enable the life savers at that dangerous point to safely launch their boat in times of rough weather was one of the conditions that Congress demanded when it passed the act of 1902, reiterating it by another act of Congress dated March 3, 1905. Had the instructions of Congress been carried out, the life savers could have gone to the assistance of the Lugano and taken her entire crew off safely, as she was sighted early in the afternoon and recognized to be unmanageable. It seems to be up to Congress to ascertain why its mandates have not been carried out; and in view of the fatal consequences already recorded, and the possible repetition of such with every storm of the approaching winter, to brook no further delay in this important matter.

There is no reason why our coastwise shipping should not have all the aid possible from the shore when it is required, especially when an appropriation is made annually out of the national treasury for that especial purpose. Let the life-saving station at Point Judith, as well as every other danger point along our coast, be made as effective as possible, and that at once.

THE IMPORTANCE OF ALCOHOL.

[S. W. McCall in Atlantic.]

The most important measure of the last Congress from an industrial standpoint was the denatured alcohol bill, so called, as if the prime object of nature in making alcohol was to provide a beverage. The bill removed the entire tax from alcohol which had been rendered undrinkable, so that this important agent in the arts might be used with comparative freedom. Free alcohol in the arts lies almost at the basis of industrial Germany, which employs it to the extent of 75,000,000 gallons a year. Our own tax of $2.15 on each gallon was practically prohibitive, and in those important manufactures which depended upon its use we were at the mercy of our rivals.

The possibilities of the employment of alcohol in producing light, heat, and power are also enormous, as gallon for gallon it has a far greater potency than the best grade of refined petroleum, and need not much, if at all, exceed it in price. The only opposition to the bill came from the wood alcohol interests, but as the use of that article, even in the arts, is attended with danger to life and health, no reason appeared for taxing for its benefit a more efficient and safer rival product, and the bill passed by a nearly unanimous vote.

Toilet Table Talks

Number 8 — About Perfume

THE next time you want to buy extra fine Perfume, don't buy imported Perfume, but ask for GOETTING'S "Japan," "Violets of Eden" or "Roses of Eden"—three odors that fully equal the very finest and most expensive imported Perfumes not only in naturalness, delicacy and fragrance, but also in lasting qualities—in fact, they are the most lasting Perfumes made.

These three odors represent the very highest attainment of the Perfumemaker's Art—when you pay more and get an imported Perfume, the difference is simply due to the "duty" on imported Perfume.

In our regular grade, you also have a choice of over 40 different odors in hundreds of style packages from 25 cents to $12.00, and the regular grade of GOETTING'S Perfume is guaranteed to be twice as lasting as any other brand sold at equal prices.

All GOETTING Odors, irrespective of price, are also guaranteed to be made entirely from real flowers without the use of any chemicals or adulterants whatsoever—and they are the only Perfumes, American or Foreign, that are guaranteed to you in this way.

Ask your dealer for a Free Sample and get acquainted.

Sold by good Dealers everywhere—if not by yours, write to us for the name of nearest Dealer. We also manufacture a high grade line of Soaps, Toilet Waters, and everything else needed for the Toilet Table and Bath. Remember—IT'S GOETTING'S, it's good—and unconditionally guaranteed.

STORE OPEN EVENINGS, Beginning Saturday, December 8.

ONLY FOURTEEN BUYING DAYS UNTIL CHRISTMAS.

We Take Just Pride in This, by Far the Greatest Holiday Showing in Newport,

THE CHRISTMAS STORE FOR YOUNG AND OLD.

It is the little folks that give us most truly and fully the Christmas inspiration. The glad holiday time perhaps means more to them than to their elders. Yet all catch the infection of the hour, and, like Peter Pan, we renew the pledge of "eternal youth" and join with hearts and hands in the joyous celebration. Thus, like a great big family, this store has caught the Christmas spirit from the first floor Bookland and the second floor Toyland and the Doll Bazaar and the one dominating idea of Yuletide spreads to every department where merchandise practical and suitable for Xmas tokens is sold.

HIGH RATES FOR CALL MONEY.

Before 11 o'Clock Had Risen to 35 Per Cent on Stock Market.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—High rates for call money continued on the stock exchange today. Within the first half hour after the opening of the market loans were made at 25 per cent. Before 11 o'clock the rate had risen to 35 per cent.

The demand for money on call apparently had been fully supplied before 2 o'clock and at that hour loans were being made at 6 per cent.

MADE DEMAND FOR $100,000.

Superintendent of Insurance Threatens President Burnham.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—Testimony bearing on the allegation that Louis F. Payn, while state superintendent of insurance, demanded $100,000 from the president of the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association and threatened that, unless this sum was paid, he would show publicly that the association was bankrupt, will be heard in the supreme court. The testimony will be given in the case of George Burnham, Jr., counsel for the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association, now on trial before Justice Greenbaum on a charge of larceny. The prosecuting in the present case alleges that President Frederick A. Burnham of the Mutual Reserve satisfied the demand made by Mr. Payn by the payment of $40,000.

An attempt to introduce testimony bearing on the Payn affair was made earlier in the Burnham trial, but it was not permitted to go in at the time. Justice Greenbaum decided today, however, that it was relevant and it will be admitted.

DEATH OF JACOB B. BROWN.

News has been received from Media, Pa., of the death at the Colonial hotel in that place yesterday of Mr. Jacob B. Brown, formerly of this city. The deceased would have been 76 years old next Tuesday, had he lived. He will be buried tomorrow at Landsdowne, Pa. Mr. Brown was for many years a resident of Newport and was well known to the boatmen, spending much of his time either on the water in his rowboat, in which he thought nothing of rowing around Commient island, or in sitting with the old tars at Alger's boat shop. He was so well known and so well liked that Mr. Alger named one of his boats after him. He felt a trifle modest about having his full name on the boat, and at his request it was changed to Mr. Brown. He was heir to the Mann estate on Mann avenue and vicinity, and evidently was still considered a citizen of Newport, as he paid personal taxes here. He had not been here for several years and had been seriously ill for a long time.

IN BEHALF OF AMERICANS.

German Councillor to Confer With Insurance Companies.

BERLIN, Dec. 7.—Messrs. Dohrmann, Thomas and Sacro of San Francisco, the delegates sent here to urge the defaulting German insurance companies to pay the claims against them, have been cordially received by the officials of the German imperial insurance office. The president of the office, Privy Councillor Gruner, has arranged to go personally with the delegates to Hamburg, and confer with the managers of two of the companies. Herr Gruner has much influence and authority in German insurance circles and his active interposition is a hopeful indication.

ON HOSPITAL STAFF.

Physicians Who Attended Sultan of Turkey During His Illness.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 7.—Dr. Bier, who together with Professor Bergmann attended the Sultan during his recent illness, has accepted His Majesty's offer of a permanent appointment on the staff of the state hospital. He will arrive here soon to take up his duties. The Sultan desires to have Dr. Bier close at hand, although at present the health of Abdul Hamid appears to be satisfactory.

GREENE—EDDY.

The marriage of Miss Jennie Patterson Eddy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Eddy, formerly of this city, to Dr. T. P. Ernest Greene, took place yesterday afternoon at the residence of the bride's parents in Dartmouth, Mass. Owing to the serious illness of the groom's grandmother the wedding was a quiet affair, only a few being present, including Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Greene, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Greene, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin G. Oman.

The reception which it was originally planned to have at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin G. Oman in this city was not held. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Frank Ramsdell, rector of the North Congregational Church of New Bedford. Dr. and Mrs. Greene left last evening on a wedding trip which will include visits to New York and Washington, and on their return will make their home for the winter and early spring with Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin G. Oman.

Dr. Greene, who was graduated last summer from the Harvard Dental School, has recently passed an examination before the state board for the practice of dentistry in Rhode Island, and later will take examinations for practice in New York and Massachusetts. He will, however, continue to play base ball during the summer, being a member of the pitching staff of the Buffalo team of the Eastern League, with which he will play next summer.

SEVERAL RAILROAD ACCIDENTS OCCUR.

brakeman seriously hurt. The Rochester wreck was due to the fact that one of the trains stopped too long to drop a car which was running badly.

At Rockingham Junction, N. H., a passenger train, running from Nashua to Dover on the Western division of the Boston & Maine railroad, crashed through a freight train which was bound for Nashua from Portland, Me. The locomotive of the passenger train was damaged and two of the freight cars were derailed. No one was injured, however.

The engineer and fireman of a locomotive on the Rutland railroad at Shaftsbury, Vt., last night, were severely hurt and scalded by a steam explosion on the engine, caused by the dropping of a crown plate in the fire box. Both men were blown from the cab. It is believed that they will recover.

Knight and Lippitt Mills Announce Increase in Wages.

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 7.—The B. B. & R. Knight Company and the Henry L. Lippitt Company posted notices in their woolen mills today, announcing an increase of wages for their employees. No rate has been named, but the raise will affect over 25,000 people. The Knight Company has 12 mills, located mostly in the Pawtuxet valley, while the Lippitt mills, four in number, are in Woonsocket.

ON VERGE OF STARVATION.

Inhabitants in Central China Suffering From Famine.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—A serious famine, affecting millions of people, prevails throughout central China, according to a cablegram received at the State Department today from Shanghai. This is the first information the government here has received that such a serious condition exists. The despatch states that relief committees have been appointed to deal with the situation. The despatch adds that the sufferers are on the verge of starvation.

STEAMERS REPORTED.

SABLE ISLAND, Nova Scotia, Dec. 7.—Steamer La Bretagne, Havre for New York, was 100 miles southeast of this point at 8:20 a. m. She will probably dock about 10 a. m. Sunday.

DEMAND FOR WINTER GOODS.

Total Bank Exchanges Show Increase of 4.9 Per Cent Over Last Year.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—Despatches to R. G. Dun & Co. indicate that in most sections of the country distribution of seasonable lines of merchandise responds promptly to the fall in temperature. Boston reports that colder weather has caused a large demand for winter goods, and retail distribution of wearing apparel is large. Wholesale dry goods houses at Portland, Me., report a satisfactory volume of business and manufacturing plants are busy, except where labor cannot be secured. Total bank exchanges the first week of December at all leading cities in the United States are $3,527,421,217, an increase of 4.9 per cent over last year.

Why Patronize Home Industry?

I challenge all who handle factory-made goods to compete with mine of home make. In the business since 1872, have made chocolates from the bean up and so know what I am talking about. I know that even the manufacturers in this country catering to the 400 colored their chocolate black for style, but I didn't, and kept the natural color to show the quality of absolutely pure goods. The dark chocolate covers a good many bad things, such as wormeaten and mouldy beans or no cocoa beans at all. They are roasted black to get rid of bad flavor. The salesmen of factories will tell the dealer that they can manufacture cheaper than I because they manufacture by machine. I agree, but only to a certain extent. They have more expense than a small manufacturer selling in his own town; for instance, building, machinery, packers, bookkeepers, salesmen, advertising, boxing and trucking. So they are compelled to make impure goods to compete with the small manufacturer. He in his native town would not risk his reputation to make such impure candy, that injures children as well as grown persons. Candy should be inspected by order of the Board of Health, and now, for the pure food law goes into effect in January and all sorts of goods will be unloaded for Christmas by the manufacturers.

The beauty of this company is this: It will not be necessary for us to spend tens of thousands of dollars in the erection of costly smelters, crushers, etc., as ore has been made to pay outright the size as it comes from the shaft at Franklin Furnace, by agents of the Krupp Steel Co. of Germany, and also one of the largest zinc refining companies in Belgium.

It simply means that your money can be put to work quicker, that your dividends will be larger, and that you will receive them more promptly. $1250 a share.

NEW YORK, Wall Street, Dec. 7.—The stock market opened easy, with Amalgamated Copper at 112⅜, American Smelting 154⅝, Anaconda 253⅝, Atchison 102, Baltimore & Ohio 117⅜, Canadian 1865, Colorado Fuel & Iron 56¾, Erie 44⅝, Illinois Northern, preferred 200½, Missouri Pacific 93¾, New York Central 133, Northern Pacific 212⅝, Pennsylvania 135⅞, Reading 165⅞, Rock Island 33⅝, St. Paul 182, Southern Railroad 34, Southern Pacific 103¾, Union Pacific 181 and 181⅝, United States Steel 47⅝, ex-div. United States Steel preferred 104½.

11—After further recessions which ran from a fraction to over a point, the market began to recover. St. Paul rose a point and most of the losses in the other leading stocks were made up. Opening transactions in call loans at 25 per cent and the subsequent advance to 30 per cent put a damper on the buying movement, and the selling was renewed. Great Northern preferred ran off 2⅜, Federal Mining 2, Canadian Pacific, Delaware & Hudson and Wisconsin Central preferred 1½, Great Northern Ore Certificates and Rock Island 1½.

NOTE—Money on call unchanged at 25 to 30 per cent; prime commercial paper 6 @ 6½ per cent. Prices receded further and call money loaned at 30 per cent before a substantial rally set in, which restored prices of many stocks to above last night's level. United States Steel and Reading were conspicuous in the rally. Trading became dull at the recovery. Bonds were irregular.

THE NEW 57-FOOTERS.

Mr. George M. Pynchon, of the New York Yacht Club, reports that the 57-foot racing measurement composite sloops which Mr. Henry F. Lippitt, of the same club, and he are building at the Herreshoffs' are progressing finely.

One of the boats is nearly planked and the other is in frame. They will be very handsome craft. Built in the staunchest possible way and have very manly intended for cruising, they will comfortable quarters. Though primarily have liberal sail plans. The spars for each are ready and the rigging has been made. The sails are well on hand. The yachts are the same in every particular, and will be completed by March 1.

Mr. Pynchon regrets that other members of the New York Yacht Club have not built in the class. He is sure that the yachts will prove satisfactory and it would be pleasant if the class numbered four or five instead of two. While Mr. Lippitt and he will have plenty of sport during next season in the matches that will be sailed for them, it could not but add to the interest surrounding the class if there were additional competitors.

The fifty-sevens should be one of the star classes of the fleet and it would be very gratifying if the yachtsmen who have been considering the advisability of building them would now decide to do so. It is not too late to order additional boats as the Herreshoffs, with their facilities for constructing vessels without delay, could deliver them a long time before the yachting season opens.

BITTER FIGHT FOR WOMAN'S FORTUNE.

A bitter fight for the fortune of Miss Nancy McConnell, of Gibsonville, Pennsylvania, will be made. Miss McConnell was killed by a railroad train last Friday and leaves an estate estimated at from $700,000 to $1,000,000.

Already half a dozen wills have been found. The one believed to be the last leaves her entire estate to the American Bible Society of New York. This will was made in 1896. Another will leaves the estate to three nephews; still another leaves it to a more distant relative, and another gives the fortune to the Rehoboth Presbyterian Church of Bellevestown, Pa.

Miss McConnell was killed while taking money to the bank, fearing burglars. As she was killed burglars were robbing the house and obtained many valuables.

A man's future is gilded at 20, with skates at 40, with profits at the bank at 60, with a digestion.--Life.

The Newport Journal and Weekly News contains an immense amount of local matter.

VALUE OF THE HALL FARMS.

Testimony in the Superior Court to Show Injury Caused by the Railroad.

In the superior court Thursday afternoon Judge Sweetland presided and Mr. Hall continued his evidence in his case against the Providence Railroad Company. He has a stone crusher on his land and a traction engine to pull cars in and out of his south entrance. There has been a work house there. The place has been let to paupers and were raised on it. It rented for $300, always rented for that. Witness was asked many details of distances, etc. He had made measurements, and gave many approximate figures from memory. The railroad took out a bridge at the south entrance of the heirs' estate.

That place is worth about $4,000. It has 30 acres, but the only building is a small shed. The place cost $1,100 in 1895. It was worth then $1,800 or $2,000. Before the road went through it was worth $4,800. Many stones had been taken out. When bought it let for $300 a year, in 1904 $290, in 1905 $100, only one lot being let. In 1906, half of the north lot let for $50.

The man on witness's place last year wouldn't hire it this year. It is unfortunate. A team was smashed there. He estimated the cost of grading his front to the new level as $1,200 or $1,400. It is a damage to have the track so close to the gate. Mr. Burdick wanted detailed estimates and witness thought it would take one man 600 days to do the grading. A wheelbarrow would be needed. The bank in the roadway is caved in all along. The wall is not a retaining wall; it is a fence. Has not noticed any of the foundation of the wall fallen at any point. The walls on the places are of different ages. Some of it is fine wall.

John T. Gardiner was the next witness. He has examined the premises in question. There is a cut from 2½ to 4 feet deep along Mr. Hall's land. Along the heirs' it is about 9½ feet. Mr. Hall's north gate cannot be centered, the bank is so high and there is a pole there. The bank will naturally crumble away and have a tendency to heave the wall. Witness is a tax assessor. The tracks have never been filled in and are an eyesore. This was ruled out, as damage for eyesore is not claimed). The court couldn't see that damage is claimed except for digging the bank and ruled out other evidence. Colonel Sheffield's exception was noted.

Witness thought the place damaged, but could not give any estimate in figures. There would have to be a great deal of grading done there. He is no judge of removing earth. Has been tax assessor one year. Mr. Hall has not asked to have the tax reduced. The road has been cut down 2 or 2½ feet. There was formerly quite a rise there. Witness lives at Newtown.

John F. Chase, 45 years a resident of Portsmouth, testified that he had examined the land in question. It is impossible to enter the north gate now. Witness lives about a mile from the place in question. Mr. Burdick objected to witness's qualification to estimate the damages in this case. The court thought it a question of making the access good and the wall secure—not of injury to the land. Couldn't an engineer who never saw the land testify?

Witness said that to make the premises as good as before it would be necessary to take down the wall and take some of the real estate for grading. He thought it would cost $800 or $900 to put the Benjamin Hall land in good condition and $1,600 to make the land of the heirs right. (This evidence went in without objection). Mr. Burdick inquired in detail about these estimates. They would give access to the whole frontage at any point. Witness has had quite a little experience in such matters, on his own place and as surveyor of roads.

John J. Corcoran, a lifelong resident of Portsmouth, living near the road values, testified as to the cut, etc. At the north gate it is more than six feet from the sleepers to the top. To grade back and build a new wall (there is a ledge there which would require blasting) would cost $1,000 for the north property. For the heirs' land $400 would be required. He figured 500 days, 2 men and a team, $7 a day, and a blaster. He was willing to take the job for $1,000. He has taken contracts, estimating in his mind without figuring, and came out right.

Frank (Benjamin F. C.) Boyd testified. He lives a half-mile from the land in question. He had examined there some. Without figuring, he thought perhaps, in a general way, it would cost $1,000 to make Mr. Hall's land as good as before. Of this, about half would be for land and half for grading. This included making the road right.

Dr. Benjamin Greene of Portsmouth affirmed. He owns some land and knows the land in question. Made by with Mr. Hall, who called his attention to them. He corroborated previous witnesses. Witness did not estimate the cost of taking down and re-building the wall and grading. That is out of his line. It would be more guesswork. He thought the railroad changed the grade of the highway there. There has been no established grade there.

George P. Hall of Cranston, one of the heirs and owners of land in question, testified in corroboration. The frost gets in much more readily through the side of the bank, and has better access under the wall. He estimated the amount for making good the north farm (his brother's) at $1,000. The other (the south) he thought would cost about the same. He figured on grading back into the lot 30 feet at the deepest cut, or an average of three feet for the whole front. This would give an entrance at any point of the frontage. He couldn't say any soil had dropped from the premises. He thought the heirs' farm worth from $3,200 to $3,500 before the railroad was built, and $1,000 now. He couldn't say what effect the railroad had had on his brother's farm.

The court then adjourned to 9:30 a. m. Friday.

FRIENDLY OLD DISHES.

The silver vaults in the house of a certain wealthy woman are filled to their utmost capacity with everything for her table's adornment. Her butler's pantry, two stories high, has a gallery that gives access to the shelves, which run from floor to ceiling, and are stocked with china and glass, but with all this wealth of table service she clings to some old, plain white dishes, much the worse for wear and age, which when alone she uses in preference to all her other possessions.

These dishes include a little white teapot, cream jug and sugar bowl and a vegetable dish, minus a cover. Her butler knows her fondness for these "old friends," and when the other members of the family are out for luncheon he always makes it a point to bring these out for her special delight. Nobody has been able to account for this peculiarity of taste on her part, though some friends, aware of her idiosyncrasy, think it is due to memories of her childhood days when she lived in Brooklyn and the S. millions had not crossed her horizon.

THE EAGLES DANCE.

The Eagles gave their first dancing party of the season in Masonic hall last evening, about 200 couples being present and the music being furnished by Cunningham's orchestra. The hall was decorated with Japanese umbrellas and lanterns, each lantern having an electric light inside, and the effect was charming. The floor was in charge of T. Egan, assisted by John Burns. The aids were D. J. Hoolihan, J. J. Burns, Joseph Perris and Charles Hewitt. W. A. Depiltch was chairman of the reception committee.

GAMBLERS TO PAY DETECTIVES.

Chinese No Longer Give Protection Money to Captain of Precinct.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—Police Commissioner Bingham said today that recently he received a letter, ostensibly written by the secretary of the Chinese Reform Association. The letter declared that two detectives on the staff of an inspector had told all the gamblers in Chinatown that no longer should they pay protection money to the captain of the precinct, but that in the future they should hand over their contributions to the two detectives, through whom it would go to a superior officer. The letter enumerated the gambling places in Chinatown.

Commissioner Bingham said the charges made in the letter are being investigated, and that it already has been learned that the list of the gambling places given was a true one.

DR. LAPPONI DEAD.

Physician to the Pope Succumbs to Cancer and Pneumonia.

ROME, Dec. 7.--Doctor Lapponi, physician to the Pope, died at 7 o'clock this morning. He had been seriously ill for some time of cancer of the stomach, and pneumonia setting in, he could not in his weakened condition withstand its ravages.

When Dr. Lapponi was sinking the Pope sent him the apostolic benediction, and when the news of the death of the doctor reached the pontiff he was exceedingly grieved.

It is reported that before losing consciousness Dr. Lapponi, referring to the Pope, said:

"He has a strong constitution, and, having studied him carefully, I think he will live longer than Leo XIII."

The dead physician was very popular in Rome among the clericals as well as the anti-clericals.

Dr. Lapponi attained considerable prominence as the physician of the late Pope Leo XII, as the medical attendant of the cardinals when in conclave, and as the doctor in attendance upon the present Pope, Pius X.
